MELTING MAKE-UP

Applying flawless make-up is great – until it slides off your face 25 minutes later. To make sure your base stays put, “Blend your foundation, pat with a tissue and apply a second coat, patting with a tissue again,” says Dr Prenna Jones. “I would advise against powder – if you apply heaps of it in a circular motion, you’ll stimulate more oil production. Instead, spritz with a fixing product.” We love Refresh 24/7 £35 drfrancesprennajones.com

6 REDNESS

“Ditch the red wine if you’re prone to redness – it will only make it worse,” advises facialist Abigail James. “Slather on a soothing, cooling mask, then place a damp muslin straight from the fridge over the top. Or, if you have an aloe plant, snap off a piece and put it in the freezer for ten minutes, then glide it over your face.” We love Rose Face Mask £46 fresh.com. And for keeping your cool, try Boosting pH Mist £26 elethea.com

7 CHIPPED POLISH

The simplest solution? “A quick dip in a sponge-style polish remover will smooth out the chip, without removing all of the paint, and will enable you to cover more evenly with the same shade,” says manicurist Rebecca Jade Wilson. “Or why not spruce up your chipped mani with some glitter tips?” We love Mint Choc Pot Fragranced Nail Polish Remover £6 ciatelondon.com

PUFFY EYES

“First, drink half a pint of water before bed,” advises Abigail. “In the morning, cold slices of cucumber or cold, damp nettle teabags really do reduce puffiness. Raw potato slices are also great. Keep your eye cream in the fridge, too.” Try Vax’In For Youth City Skin Solution Youth Protecting D-Tox Eye Serum £41 Givenchy.

HANGOVER FACE

We’ve all been there – you wake up after a big night, make-up smeared, skin grey, cheeks puffy. Why? “Late nights and too much alcohol combine to make our skin work harder to flush out the extra toxins, resulting in puffiness, dullness and extra-obvious blemishes and fine lines,” explains Katie. “First, exfoliate, keeping cell turnover up and removing any dull dead skin cells, then use a good mask rich in antioxidants,” adds Abigail. Try these: Liquid Facial Resurfacer £36 sarahchapman.net and Intense Glow HydraGel Mask £12 declor.co.uk
